

Evolution of Home-Based Care During the Pandemic

March 9, 2022

WORKING TO MAKE THE HOME A CLINICAL SITE OF CARE

ABOUT US

Moving Health Home (MHH) is a coalition made up of stakeholders working to change federal and state policy to enable the home to be a clinical site of care.

Today, we have an opportunity to shape the future of health care as policymakers, thought leaders, providers, health plans and patients absorb the lessons and experiences of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Evolution of Home-Based Care
During the COVID-19 Pandemic:
Lessons Learned & Implications
for Federal and State Policy

January 18, 2022

 Moving Health Home
An Alliance to Advance Home-based Care Policy

Lessons Learned from the Pandemic

1. Home-Based Care Can go Beyond Home Health
2. Organizations with Experience Providing Home-Based Care Were Well-Positioned to Respond During the Public Health Emergency
3. Home-Based Care Models Boost Patient Satisfaction, Improve Quality, and Reduce Costs
4. Regulatory Flexibility is Essential to Success

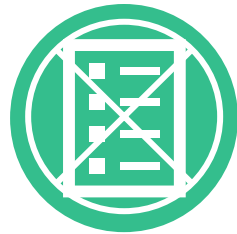

IDENTIFYING THE POLICY AND REGULATORY BARRIERS

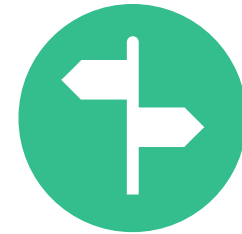

01.

Uncertain Regulatory Environment in a Post-PHE World;

02.

Overly Restrictive Requirements for Hospital at Home Programs; and 03.

Significant Variability in Provider Requirements across States.
